COL. POPE DIES AT SUMMER HOME

Pioneer Bicycle Manufacturer's Health Failed Since His Co.'s Embarrassment

Won Honors In Civil War

Boston, Mass., Aug. 11.—Col. Albert A. Pope, the pioneer bicycle manufacturer of the United States, who was also interested in the manufacturing of automobiles, and well known as one of the first advocates of the existing good roads system, died at his summer home in Cohasset, last evening. Col. Pope had been in ill-health for months, due to the breaking down of his nervous system which followed the financial embarrassment of his bicycle company, the largest concern of the kind in the country, which had its headquarters at Hartford, Conn. Since July 9 he had been seriously ill and his death had been expected.

Col. Albert Augustus Pope was born in Boston on May 20, 1843. He traced his descent from the well-known New England families of Pope, Pierce, Cole, Stubbins, and Neal. His father placed the family in straightened circumstances, and young Pope was forced to earn his own living when he was only 19 years of age. He obtained employment on a neighboring farm in Brookline, working in the afternoon after school and during the winter vacation. He was successful in buying fruit and vegetables from the farmers, and sold them again, thus setting up a little business of his own. He hired other boys to assist him in extending his trade, and in one summer made a profit of $100.

At the age of 15 young Pope left High School and secured employment in the Quincy market, taking a position later on with a firm dealing in shoe findings. He did all the work of a porter, carrying 100-pound boxes and doing more than a man's work for $4 a week. The store was more than five miles from his home, but he observed economy and walked to and from work, saving a total of 16 cents a week.

When the war broke out Mr. Pope joined Sallenger's Zouaves and was chosen Captain of the home guards of Brookline. He had become a familiar with military tactics. He was hardly 19 years of age when he went to the front in 1862 as Second Lieutenant in the Thirty-first Massachusetts Infantry. He successfully filled the offices of First Lieutenant, Captain, Major, and Lieutenant Colonel, and was one of the four original officers of the regiment who were mustered out of service at the close of the war.

The chief battles in which he participated were South Mountain, Sulphur Springs, Fredericksburg, Vicksburg, Jackson, Knoxville, and Petersburg. He was employed in important detached services, and on several occasions acted as commander of his regiment during the absence of the Colonel. Col. Pope was highly commended by his superior officers for the ability and skill which he displayed in organizing within twelve hours a provisional regiment of artillery from the convalescent camp at Alexandria, Va., with but few arms and no equipment.

After the war he returned to his home in Brookline, where he was engaged in the bicycle business. He was highly commended by his superior officers for the ability and skill which he displayed in organizing within twelve hours a provisional regiment of artillery from the convalescent camp at Alexandria, Va., with but few arms and no equipment.

Other permits were granted as follows: Mrs. P. Ashman, addition to house in Bangor; Mrs. Hattie Lunt, frame addition to house in Wade street; Mrs. L. E. Clark, frame addition to barn, Louisa street; Michael Dillon, two family frame dwelling, Edwin street; The Misses M. L. and E. J. Fitch, one family frame dwelling, Alpine street; Charles Burstrom, one family frame dwelling, Elmira street; Nathan Kraut, three story brick store and tenement building, north side of Stillman street.

The aggregate value of the permits granted was $152,455.

OLD JED PROUTY

Richard Golden Began Stage Career as Fore Legs of Heifer in Rice's "Evangeline."

Richard Golden, the actor, whose death occurred yesterday on John Newton Porter's yacht Steller, at anchor in the Brooklyn Yacht Club anchorage in Gravesend Bay, where he had been with Mrs. Golden as a guest for several days, was a sufferer from acute Bright's disease.

Mr. Golden was planning a trip to England to make negotiations for the production of a play he had written. His illness was sudden and came without premonition. A few days ago he had been with friends at the Lamb Club, chatting about his forthcoming venture in England.

Richard Golden was born in Bangor, Me., in July, 1854. When his education in the city of Bangor was only half completed he got the smell of the stage and made his first professional appearance in a circus at the age of 18. With Allen's Allied Shows, as the circus was called, his career was brief and unproductive of real artistic value.

His real stage debut was made in 1876, when he joined Edward Rice's show company in the humble part of the fore legs of the heifer in "Evangeline." Henry E. Dixey was cast as the hind legs. Such success did Golden make as the fore legs that soon he was promoted to the parts of the policeman and Le Blanc in this successful initial production of the old comedy.

After many seasons with Rice, Golden undertook the management of the Dora Wiley Opera Company, of which his first wife, from whom he was divorced in 1892, was the star. He married Miss Katherine Kittelman of Cohasset, N. Y. His first real success was with the company in which his name was best known came when he appeared in "Old Jed Prouty," a comedy of which he was a part author. About 3,000 times Golden appeared in the role of Jed throughout the country. This success had been preceded by his engagements in "The Bells of Cordoba," in "Patience," which was produced at Haverly's in 1892, and "The Mascot."

In 1898 he had a leading part in the first Alice Nielsen production at Wal-lack's of "The Fortune Teller," and the following season he played the part of the steward to the Duke of the "Other Home." In the fall of 1907 he was seen in "The Tourists" and "The Bad Samaritan," and in the fall of 1907 he was seen in "The Tourists" and "The Bad Samaritan," and in the fall of 1907 he was seen in "The Tourists" and "The Bad Samaritan."

Mr. Golden's funeral services will be held this afternoon at the Little Church Around the Corner. The interment will be at Bangor.

BARNUM BILL IS POSTPONED

All Public Offices/Legislation Probably Deferred for the Present Session.

NOW MEMBERS VOTED

Eastford, Aug. 11.—After spending a day upon consideration of the Barnum bill and other kindred utility matters the House yesterday by a five vote vote indefinitely postponed action on the subject. The vote came after the House by roll call rejected the minority bill, slightly changed and offered as an amendment to the majority report and after an amendment by Representative Parker of Hartford had been adopted. The motion to postpone was made by Representative Bishop of New Haven and judging by the vote, most the approval of seven-eighths of the members present.

Mr. Whitton of New London offered an amendment to the majority report which was the minority changes in sections 9 and 11, the changes giving corporations the right to appeal and raising the salary of the commissioners from $4,000 to $5,000 in two important respects.

Mr. Higgins of Winchester said he recognized the importance of corporate interests and was not one to harm them, but he realized that the people had granted them important and non-political rights. The Legislature should protect its own creatures but it should have a commission to protect the rights of the people.

Why omit from our supervision the steam and trolley lines? The result of the vote was: Necessary for passage.....115 Yes.....116 No.....117

Those voting "yes" in Fairfield and Haddam counties were: Fairfield County—F. C. Clark, Bartlett, Rogers, Tomlinson, Williamson, Moulthrop, Provost, Knapp, W. C. Johnson, M. E. Smith, Loucks, A. J. French, C. B. Northrop, C. H. Peck, French, J. A. Bulkley, Ogden.

Litchfield County—L. G. Northrop, C. C. Dean, H. Smith, Loucks, A. J. French, C. B. Northrop, C. H. Peck, French, J. A. Bulkley, Ogden.

Those voting "no" in the same counties were: Fairfield County—Kyle, Taylor, Wheeler, Pease, Burnes, Lockwood, Shelton, Sinclair, Curtis, Davis, Barnes, Huxford, Banks.

Litchfield County—Williams, Coe, Allen, Humphrey, Wilcox, Vail, Bickert, Smith, Beckwith, Kyle, Marsh, Norton, Scott, Knight, Eggleston, Everett, Atkins, Strong, Dougal.

BURGLAR STIRS THREE TOWNS

South Norwalk, Aug. 11.—When a burglar was discovered ransacking the summer home of Reginald Jaffray, at Tokeneke, yesterday it was the first time in ten years of existence that the colony realized that it was without police protection. The frightened residents telephoned to three towns for police and the latter in each case said they had no jurisdiction outside their own town.

Mr. Jaffray is in Europe for the summer and through the fact that no police could be obtained his handsome home was pillaged. Until the owner returns it will be impossible to determine the value of the property stolen. It is probable that the Tokeneke Club will now organize a vigilance committee.

Some people tolerate roaches and water-bugs in the kitchen, in vain belief that the rest of the family will not find it out. Perhaps they will not, but suppose that some day you would serve a roach in the pie: perhaps then you would wish that you had spent 20c for a box of Cyrus Roach Powder.

English Strike Breakers Are Going to Sweden

London, Aug. 11.—Despite the warnings of British boards of trade, several ship loads more of English strike breakers left Hull today for Sweden. The strike-breakers were warned that they would incur heavy personal risks in going to Sweden and would find the door of organized labor forever closed to them upon their return to England. The warning is apparently disdaining none. Officials are busy among the great masses of England who are employed and are finding thousands who are anxious to go to work and willing to assume any risk.

Cuba's National Lottery Receives Severe Jolt

(Special from United Press.) Havana, Aug. 11.—Cuba's hope of reaping a rich harvest from American investors in the new Cuban lottery received a severe set-back when it was announced that the United States postal authorities would probably exercise a close supervision of mails shipped to Cuba to see that they contained no remittances for lottery tickets.

For this reason Cuban business houses and people generally are notifying their clients and friends in the United States that it will be well hereafter in sending of checks to Cuba, to enclose on the checks the purpose for which they are sent. Otherwise, if the circumstances are deemed suspicious the checks may be held up pending investigation.

Preparations for the opening of the lottery are rapidly being completed. The directors of the Bridgeport Savings Bank met this morning and adopted resolutions relative to the death of Edward Sterling, trustee of the bank since 1876, and later its vice president. The resolutions will be spread upon the minutes of the bank and a copy will be transmitted to the family.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Miss Esther McCann is spending a three weeks vacation with her sister Mrs. Percy H. Busse of Newport, R. I.

George Orlatt of 206 Olive street has returned from a few days visit with his son who is staying in Torrington with his uncle George Elliott for an indefinite period for his health being very ill for several months.

The societies of St. George's Episcopal church are much pleased with the success of their lawn party which was held on the church grounds, Colorado and Maplewood avenue, last night. The scene was lighted with Japanese lanterns. The booth at which ice cream and temperance drinks were sold was well patronized. Miss Ethel Morton, George Brandon and Miss Otis Morton had charge of the department. A number of young women connected with the choir furnished music.

The P. J. McGuire association held its annual clambake at Orchard Grove Sunday. Morris Walsh received a $5 prize for the best buck and wing dancing.

Miss Lydia A. Slipperley of 218 Norman street will leave for Philadelphia Thursday for two or three weeks.

People with chronic bronchitis, asthma and lung trouble, will find great relief and comfort in Foley's Honey and Tar, and can avoid suffering by commencing to take it at once. F. B. Brill, local agent. *135

Deaths and Funerals.

Orville H. Swift, whose sudden death was told in the Farmer yesterday, was the oldest man in the railway mail service. His decease was due to dysentery. He served 47 years of his 81 years of life he had been a clerk in the railway mail service. He is survived by a widow and seven children, one of whom lives in this city. He was born in Wilmington, Vt., March 30, 1828. When the civil war began he enlisted in Company A, Eighth New York State Militia. He fought at Bull Run where he was wounded and captured. He was taken to Libby prison and was held until January 20, 1862, when he was paroled. In February of the same year he was honorably discharged.

Kicked By a Horse.

Elton Gee, son of Mr. James Gee of Shelton, took a ride with John Johnson, Saturday afternoon, and as a result is now suffering with a compound fracture of the leg. The horse suddenly kicked and the iron shoe had struck young Gee just below the knee, the force of the kick not only fracturing the bones of the leg, but also cutting the flesh and severing an artery. The wound is a bad one, but the youth of the victim is in his favor and it is hoped no permanent disability will follow.
